13. Catalogue Integro. What is it?

Library catalogue Integro is an online database of materials held by a library. It allows browsing online data in the database, as well as to request and reserve library documents; it also informs the users of the state of their library accounts. You can get access to catalogue Integro of Silesian library via Internet or by graphic terminals in the library building (when the library is open). Integro offers various possibilities: browsing the library collection to look for needed documents according to the system's indexes; creating searching strategies, informing of the status of requested items via e-mail and users' self-service (renewing the borrowed materials).

More information:www.prolib.pl

14. Does the library catalogue Integro contain information of all library collections?

The library catalogue does not contain manuscripts, graphics, grey literature; it records only part of the old prints collected in the Library, cartography (maps, atlases, plans), films, sound recordings, as well as periodicals. If you are interested in one of the materials mentioned above you should first check the electronic catalogue, then traditional cards catalogues. To get complete information you can contact the Library staff directly or via e-mail.

15. I cannot log in to the Library catalogue — Integro online from home

- To log in to the library catalogue you should type in: your library card number and a password. The password cannot contain diacritical marks.
- It is important to unblock „cookies" in your Internet browser.

16. What does the information „This item cannot be requested / reserved. It can only be accessed on-site" mean?

It means that the book is in a reading room reference collection. This book cannot be requested. You can take it directly from the shelf and read in the reading room (when the library is open).

17. I have reserved a book which is presently on loan by another user. Will it be available for me in the given deadline?

When there is a reservation on a book this book cannot be renewed by the present user. However date when it is available for you to collect depends on the real date of its return by previous user. User can return a book earlier (before the due date) or later (paying the overdue fine). At the moment of return the book is no longer visible in your „reservations"

(in the account), it appears in the option „requests" and is waiting there for 7 days (no matter what the reservation date was) for the confirmation of the request. If during these 7 days you do not confirm your request in your electronic account, it will become available for other users and your reservation is finished. So it is important to check your reservations and requests at least once a week via Internet. You can also get this information via e-mail if you give us your e-mail address.
